John Waterhouse
THE LIVING LANDSCAPE

J. Waterhouse

“MAN & NATURE in perfect harmony”

John Waterhouse is acknowledged as an outstanding figure on the British art scene. His ethereal paintings reflect his passion for the beauty he sees in people and places, and over the last 10 years he has become one of our most admired and collectable landscape artists.

The new collection of original oil paintings explores the relationship between life and the landscape. In this highly atmospheric, ethereal world, distant figures interact with their surroundings in the misty morning light, blending with their beautifully evoked setting.

When painting a landscape, a lot of the information is there,

but more often than not John feels compelled to add or change something slightly - a cloud formation, a distant figure, or perhaps the way the light is falling

“ With landscapes I feel it is not so much an idea, but an ability to balance and compose what is already there...

I find the English countryside very romantic.

Fields and trees to me have their own character and history, just as a person does.

By taking time to study the view that I am about to paint,
I'm able to decide the areas that require toning down and the areas that need to be made more vivid in order to emphasise its character.
